Hello! Welcome to the Autumn/Winter edition of our Hospice Newsletter.

Our patients, and their families, rely on your support, and our expertise to be able to provide care and advice. We wanted to take this opportunity to thank you and everyone involved with Springhill Hospice for helping to provide such a fantastic service. Thank you.

As restrictions have eased, it is starting to feel like some sort of normality is within our grasp. Our shops have reopened and we've restarted some of our fundraising activities. However, this isn't the case for our nurses, our patients and their families. Springhill Hospice provides the highest standard of specialised, person-centred care to those living with a life-limiting illness. As I'm sure you will appreciate, because of the impact of the illnesses and conditions our patients are living with, and because their safety and comfort is our absolute priority, our nurses take a cautious view to the easing of any restrictions.

Many of you will have supported our Nursing Resilience Appeal earlier this year. Your support and response has made a huge difference, not only from the donations received but the wonderful messages of support you sent to the Hospice team, which were so positive at what has been an incredibly difficult time.

We're only able to provide the highest levels of round-the-clock care, now and in the future, because of the kind support of people like you.

I hope you enjoy this edition of our newsletter. We've started working on our Christmas fundraising plans, and are excited as some of our firm favourites are returning to our events calendar along with some new activities too!

Thank you again for making Hospice care possible,

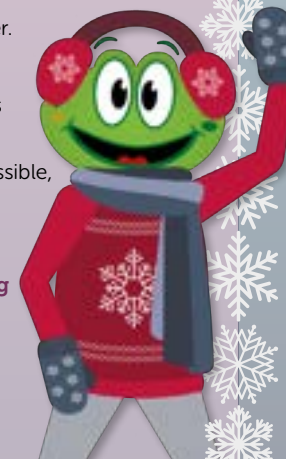

Emily Kennedy

Everything you need to know about leaving a Gift in your Will with Aamna Mohammad from Molesworths Bright Clegg

Why is it important to have a Will in place and kept up to date?

Your Will is an important document, which details your wishes upon your death.

Circumstances are ever changing and it is important to keep your will up to date to ensure it takes into account any changes.

How do I create or update a Will?

Creating or updating your Will is very easy. Please contact Molesworths Bright Clegg Solicitors and we would be more than happy to help.

How easy is it for a client to leave a gift in their Will to a charity? Does this need to be a set amount?

Making a gift to charity, in your Will, is known as a charitable legacy. There are a number of different ways in which you can make a charitable legacy in your Will:

- By leaving a specific sum of money, for example £500.00
- By leaving specific items, such as jewellery, art or furniture
- By leaving a portion or the entirety of your residuary estate. This means that the charity would receive the funds which are left after any debts, funeral expenses and specific gifts have been paid

You can choose how much or how little you leave to charity, the decision is entirely up to you.

Can I leave a gift in my Will to more than one charity?

You can leave gifts to more than one charity if you wish. It is in fact common for people to leave more than one charitable legacy.

How do charities benefit from your clients leaving gifts in their Wills?

Leaving a charitable gift in a Will allows our clients to give something back. It is likely that charities mentioned in a Will, have played a part in our clients' lives and sometimes made a difference. Not only does giving money to charity help leave a positive legacy, it can also reduce the amount of tax paid by the rest of the estate.

Make every moment count by leaving Springhill a gift in your Will

In years to come your gift could make a big difference, giving a patient and their family peace and dignity at the end of life. Your gift will provide important care, comfort and support to patients and families, so they can make the most of the precious time they have left.

If you have any questions about making a Will and leaving a gift to Springhill Hospice, please get in touch, we're here to help.

Jerome's Story

In the Summer of 2020 I'd found my levels of fitness dropped significantly. Professionally I've been a Soldier, Police Officer and I've played rugby and always kept myself in pretty reasonable condition. My wife, Jen, and I used to walk a lot and I've always been fit and healthy. I found that I wasn't able to keep up with her on our walks, to the point where on one walk in the West Pennines I had to stop and she had to go and fetch the car and pick me up. I don't know why but I put it down to getting older and not being as fit, which seems silly now!

On another occasion I'd walked up a flight of stairs at work and it took me around 10 minutes to recover from it. Jen was worried and we ended up at the Walk In Centre at Rochdale Infirmary where they discovered a large lump which they thought was around my liver. After further hospital visits, scans and an unrelated stay in hospital with Pneumonia they eventually found the problem was with my kidney. I was diagnosed with clear cell renal cell carcinoma, effectively cancer in my right kidney. I also had clotting in the veins leading to and from my kidney and in the large vein that runs up the centre of your body.

Until the beginning of 2021 I found that I could still manage a 5-6 mile flat walk with the dog, at my own pace, but fast forward a couple of months and now I couldn't dream of walking any distance. I was referred to the Specialist Community Nursing Team at Springhill in Spring of 2021 following a visit to A&E at North Manchester.

One of Springhill's Specialist Community Nurses came out and spent a lot of time with me, talking to me about my condition. She wanted to know which other teams were involved in my care, what they were doing for me and, most importantly, they wanted to know what I felt about what was happening. Rather than being asked diagnostic questions they asked questions like 'if we do this what do you think?' or 'shall we try this?'... they involved me. They put together a home care package which worked for a while, but two or so weeks afterwards I had a horrible night. From the moment I went to bed I was in pain. I don't know what triggered it but I couldn't get rid of it. I needed help. I couldn't think through it but, in the moments I could, I was really scared. I felt out of control and couldn't do anything about it.

Jen called an ambulance and they managed to stop the immediate pain, but were at a loss as to where to go from there. Thankfully they were excellent and they phoned the nurses at Springhill. One of them came out immediately and I was admitted to Springhill's In-Patient Unit.

It was odd for me. I knew I definitely didn't want to go into Hospital, but on the other hand I was absolutely frightened to death. I'm 56, not particularly old, but I'm of that generation that believes you go to a Hospice to die, so that was the thought going through my head. I was worried.

From there on, the team at Springhill just blew my mind. Every single interaction or element of being in the Hospice was just surprising; it was an education, an unbelievable education. I found it amazing in every way.

The attitude of the staff meant I was involved in the choices around my care. Jen and my sister were understandably worried and I was more than happy for the Doctors and Nurses to speak to them directly. They had a great care for my family as well as me, particularly in these times where they couldn't visit because of Covid. The Doctors and Nurses guided me through everything. They made sure I knew what information to give to Jen and my sister. They almost anticipated the questions Jen would ask and, whilst they didn't tell me how to answer them, we talked about why it was important to answer those questions.

The thing that really stood out for me was the professional competence of the staff; these were people who were at the top of their game. There was an amazing professional ethos. It's easy for me to say these things about the nurses and doctors, but it extends to the attitude of the cleaning staff and the people who served you your dinner and the maintenance stewards. They'd come in in the morning to have a chat and they'd remember the conversation you'd had the day before. They would ask questions about how you were getting on. It was an ethos that ran throughout the whole team. They were all in it together, for you; there was real compassion right across the board. I felt confident, and I soon became comfortable there. You knew every single one of them was there for you.

I was in the Hospice for pain control for just over a week. Now I'm back home I'm still in touch with the SPCN team; one of them is coming in later in the month to see how I am coping around the house with stairs and obstacles. One thing I've come to realise through my journey with Springhill is that, whilst I'm hugely independent, I've learnt that if I accept a little bit of help then my ability to cope lasts a little bit longer. I always try and have the attitude that I have a good day and a better day and something in between, but never have a bad day and that helps me to get through things.

Being at Springhill was a very humbling experience; just to think that there are such impressive people in the world and that they will look after you. I made up my mind very early on, following my experience at Springhill, that my illness is terminal and I'm quite comfortable with that as a proposition, I never wanted to die at home. My family is traditional. I remember going to my Grandma's funeral and her coffin was in the living room. That's something I've never forgotten and wasn't something I wanted to happen with me. It seems an odd thing to say, but the place I want to die is at Springhill Hospice.

☆ 2021 Light up a Life ☆

Springhill Hospice invites you to reflect, remember and celebrate those special people this December.

As we near the end of the year, Light up a Life provides a chance for you to remember and celebrate the lives of your loved ones, by dedicating a light on our beautiful Hospice tree.

Springhill Hospice invites you to dedicate a light on our tree, and join others in remembering those exceptional people who have brought joy and light to your life. Hundreds of lights will shine brightly, each in memory of those you love, turning our garden into a haven of light and hope.

You can make a donation of your choice to dedicate your light in memory of your loved one. Each dedication will mean our patients and their loved ones will receive the care they need to make every moment count.

You will receive a personalised card, displaying your loved one's name, and a Light up a Life home pack including a dedication star which you can personalise with your own special memory.

All dedications will appear in our Book of Lights which will be displayed virtually on our website.

For 2021 our Light up a Life service will be virtual and will include music, carols, readings and poems for you to reflect, remember and celebrate the memories of your loved ones. The service will be streamed on our website and social media pages on Saturday 4th December at 6pm and will remain available throughout December for you to watch at a time that is meaningful to you.

Should restrictions allow, and taking into account the safety of our patients and staff, we may be able to invite you to the Hospice to view the Light up a Life tree and hang your dedication star on one of our Hospice trees. Information regarding this will be updated on our website, social media and by email should you provide this contact information with your dedication.

"I take part in Light up a Life for my Dad, Brian."

Our first experience with Springhill was when my Dad, Brian Hatcher, was referred to go to the Day Hospice. He had kidney cancer and was also battling prostate cancer. He looked forward to spending Monday afternoons there and it quickly became known as the Grandad Club in our house. Dad was offered a range of activities that he could take part in including art, which he loved. The professionals and volunteers there were all fantastic.

Unfortunately, Dad's prostate cancer got worse and he was rushed into hospital in January 2015. We soon found out that hospital was not the right place for Dad as they couldn't offer any surgery and we were facing end of life care. The hospital was too far away and I hated the feeling that if we got that inevitable call we just didn't want this to be where Dad was. They spoke to the Hospice and Dad was moved to Springhill a couple of days later. The difference for all of us was instant.

Dad had his own room at Springhill and the care was second to none. I felt that this was somewhere I wanted my boys, aged 5 and 7, to see their Grandad for what would be the last time. I asked the boys if they wanted to go and see Grandad at the Grandad Club. They did and it's something they'll always remember, especially the Hospice's cat and the bird tables. Dad passed away peacefully at the end of that week. The Hospice were so fantastic supporting our family at that time.

Since losing Dad many people asked if it would be hard for us to go back to the Hospice, but it never has been. We've been to many fairs there and my Mum, Veronica, completed the Hospice to Hospice Walk a couple of years ago at the age of 80. Last year during lockdown myself and my youngest son, Todd, shaved our hair off and set ourselves an initial fundraising target of £300. We managed to raise over £2,000 in the end. We also have a tree planted in the Hospice garden in Dad's name. Me and Mum have always dedicated a light to Dad for Light up a Life and have attended the Light up a Life services, which has become a tradition and our time to remember and grieve.

Springhill Hospice gives me some peace and comfort and will always hold a special place in my heart. The people and the place are lovely and, at such a difficult time, they are there for the local community and their families.

Fundraising at work

Fundraising at work for Springhill Hospice is a fantastic and easy way to make a real difference to your local community. It's also a great way of working towards, and meeting, your Corporate Social Responsibility goals.

From adopting Springhill Hospice as your Charity of the Year to holding an annual fundraising day, taking on a team challenge, sponsoring one of Springhill's events or activities or even offering your services as a gift in kind there is something for every business.

Just like the care we provide, we understand one size doesn't fit all, so our dedicated Corporate and Partnerships Fundraiser will work with you to find the best way for you to get your team motivated and support local Hospice care.
